

Letting Go

By K. Brendi Poppel

Letting go of dreams that will never come true
Letting go of everything, I give myself to You,
Lord above, great Source of love,
I pray you be my eyes and ears,
That I might learn instead of burn,
Grow wise, not consumed with foolish fears.
For loving can be hard and bitterness can kill,
Teach me to forgive and help me to be still,
And listen for that Spirit voice calling from afar,
"I am here, never fear," says God, "Wherever you are...
You're in my sight, I make wrongs right,
I light the way ahead,
So let go of the past, My love will last,
Just trust in me instead.
Take my hand, I understand,
I will take you there,
Where love will warm your broken heart,
Just make a start – prepare ...
To be transformed, to be born anew,
Know that I have hold of you,
You are mine, precious and divine,
For there is a spark of me in you
Come out of the dark, let the world see
The beauty of me shining through."

Copyright ©

All rights reserved by K. Brendi Poppel