

I Sought the Truth

By K. Brendi Poppel

My life was maze of confusion,
Each door I've opened led me nowhere,
Dark passages cloaked in illusion,
I saw the truth but what was caught in despair until I was shaken until I awakened to a resonance within that clearly spoke to my heart and my soul. Now I can see a whole new view of reality that ever-expanding inner dimension began to unfold in its unique way, The light beyond my comprehension began to burn brighter and soon came to the day when I could see clearly a path for me.
I followed that lamp of my destiny, learning the lessons of life as I went, now asking to serve as God's instrument and each day is full of wondrous surprises are angels, playing in human disguises,
His life woven from a master design, Cannot which is human approached the divine, I sought the truth,
I questioned and doubted,
Sometimes God whispered,
Sometimes He shouted,
But whenever I turned to that light in my mind, God brought me the truth that I sought to find.

Copyright ©

All Rights Reserved by K. Brendi Poppel